How exactly does the RESP work?

It's not rocket science. Here's what you need to know to get started:

You contribute to a child's RESP.
Your own or a loved one.

Governments deposit grants directly into the RESP.¹
A minimum of 20% for everyone.^{1,2}
Up to $9,200 per child in subsidies in New Brunswick.^{2,3}

Over the years, these amounts grow tax-free.
Your savings grow quickly, especially if you contribute to your RESP regularly.

Start of post-secondary studies⁴
The types of sums you can access

The breakdown below is not representative of actual values and is intended simply to show the various funds that make up an RESP.

Grants + accumulated income

Amounts earmarked for a young person to finance his or her studies. These are known as Education Assistance Payments (EAP).

Your child has access to EAPs as soon as he or she registers for post-secondary studies: trade school, ACS, DCS or university, anywhere in the world.⁴

Your contributions

The savings you have invested as an RESP subscriber.

You may give the money to the student or use it as you see fit. These contributions are tax-free.

All Kaleido's assets are entrusted to managers who are signatories to the Principles for Responsible Investment (PRI), an investor initiative supported by the United Nations.

More for your family with our support services

We know that reaching each child's full potential also requires support with everyday challenges. That's why at Kaleido, we offer an RESP that does more.

Our range of RESPs gives you access to many free or discounted privileges offered by our qualified partners in health and wellness, tutoring and academic support, coaching and family life, family finances and career guidance.⁵
